

Dig Deeper, Get Curious!

As you're out and about talking to people involved in growing food in their region, keep the conversation going with these questions:

What do you grow/produce? Why?

---

Who are your customers? (Or who uses what you grow/produce?)

---

What challenges do you face? What can be done to ease them?

---

How do you produce your product?

---

Do you use artificial fertilizers? Other techniques?

---

What technology do you use?

---

Has new technology enabled you to do anything differently? (Has it changed? Does it yield improvements? Do you shun technology?)

---

Who and what do you learn from? What did you need to learn to do this work?

---

What did you study? Any learning by doing?

---

Where does the stuff you produce start from?

---

Where does it end up?

---

Where are you in the food network?
