

Awesome Girls: Tackling Global Public Health Challenges

Event Guide

Interested in hosting your own local global public health event? Here's how!

Step 1—Invite Your Troop

Find a date and time that works for everyone to come together to talk about global public health.

Step 2—Invite an Expert

Is there someone from your local community who is an expert in anything related to public health who you could invite to attend your event? This may be someone who works in a hospital or in the field of mental health, for example. Need some help finding an expert? Ask your troop leader for ideas!

Step 3—Watch Awesome Girls: Tackling Global Public Health Challenges

Once you have all gathered for your event, kick it off by watching the playback of Awesome Girls: Tackling Global Public Health Challenges.

Step 4—Discuss as a Group

After watching the playback, talk about these questions with your troop:

- What is global public health?
- Why is it important?
- What are some examples of global public health crises?
- How important is it for all of us to be part of the solution to public health crises?

Step 5—Hear from Your Expert

Now it is time to hear from your local expert about their experiences in public health, and your opportunity to ask them any questions about their experiences.

Congratulations on hosting your own global public health event! If you want to go further, be sure to check out the resource sheet on our website.
